

I wrote a paragraph with at least one paraphrased sentence.

Cite the paraphrased sentences!

Did I include a citation in every paraphrased sentence?

no

Did I paraphrase more than one source in my paragraph?

yes

no

Did I include a citation in the first paraphrased sentence in my paragraph?

no

yes

no

Did I connect each of my paraphrased sentences in a series that builds on and extends the sentence containing a citation to the source of these paraphrased sentences?

yes

At this point, additional citations in each and every sentence may be unnecessary, as long as these sentences do not express ideas or opinions that appear to be your own work.

There are good reasons for taking this approach, especially in paragraphs that paraphrase different sources of information from one or more authors. Well done!
